1. In order to fulfill the production plan of the Paris Commune Shipyard in Gdynia for 1953, the managing director, Engineer Eugeniusz Skrzynowski, decided to reduce to a minimum the number of employees at the Central Shipbuilding Office (Centralne Biuro Konstrukcji). The surplus employees have been shifted to production work.
2. A team of Soviet employees, headed by Engineer Guzin, arrived at the shipyard. Their task is to supervise the construction of ore and coal-carrying ships, which had been ordered by the Soviet Government. Engineer Pup has been attached to the Soviet team, as the Polish representative. He is a somewhat overrated expert in shipbuilding.
3. About ten or more graduates of technical schools have been attached to the shipyard for employment in the workshops. An order which compelled students of polytechnical and higher technical schools to work in the shipyards has recently been extended to pupils of technical schools. Graduates, after passing their final examinations, are forcibly directed to places of work. It is most difficult and complicated to apply either for cancellation of this order or for a change of place of work.
